

What elements of experimental design, such as randomization or the use of a control group, do you think were present in the experiment?

