

What critiques do you have of this study and its design? What would have made the study better?

